Election Interest Is Low

Andover officials are looking apprehensively toward the annual town election, March 26.

With low voter turnout recorded in recent years, there is every indication that such a trend will continue since this is the year there are only single offices up for voter appeal.

As of Wednesday of this week, two incumbents have indicated they will seek re-election.

Selectman Donn Byrne has obtained nomination papers for a return to a second three-year term on the board.

Nomination papers have also been obtained by Moderator James D. Doherty who will be seeking another one-year term.

The term of Michael Giammusso on the school committee will expire this year and he has not indicated whether he will be a candidate for re-election as yet, or at least has not obtained nomination papers from Town Clerk Elden R. Salter.

The same is true for Winston Blake of the Andover Housing Authority. Blake, a veteran of several years service on the AHA, sought a one-year term last year to fill a vacancy, rather than run for a full five-year term on the board. The full term will be on the ballot in March.

Nomination papers, containing 110 certified signatures are due in the town clerk's office by 5 p.m., Feb. 13.

The annual town election will be Monday, March 26, from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Dunn Gymnasium, Andover High School.

The additional hour has been added by a recent act of the legislature and the state will be reimbursing towns and cities this year for the additional time required, Town Clerk Salter reported.

Preceding the town election will be the Presidential Primary on March 13, in which the voting hours will also be from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and the single voting location will be used.

Salter said this week that the use of the single voting location for the entire town will be maintained through the March elections.

Dr. Richard McGrail, left, and Lois Haslam, with Supt. of Schools Kenneth Seifert, have been named assistant superintendents until the vacancy created by Charles Mitsakos leaving is filled later this year.

Temporary Assignments Fill School Administrative Staff

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The principals of Doherty Junior High and Bancroft School have been chosen to fill the shoes of recently-departed assistant school superintendent Charles Mitsakos, until the next fiscal year begins on July 1.

Superintendent Kenneth Seifert will recommend that the School Committee appoint Doherty Principal Richard McGrail and Bancroft Principal Lois Haslam to serve as acting assistant superintendents, starting this month. Mitsakos has left the position to become school superintendent in Winchester.

McGrail, who was principal of the former East Junior High and served as school building project coordinator during the secondary school building project, will concentrate on the secondary schools, including budget planning. Haslam, who was principal at Doherty elementary school until it became a junior high, will work on elementary school administration and budgeting.

The temporary appointments of McGrail and Haslam will be accompanied by several other temporary appointments. Doherty

League To Meet With Rep. Tucker

The League of Women Voters of Andover will hold a general membership legislative process meeting with Rep. Sue Tucker on Friday, Jan. 13, at noon at the home of Margot Bixby, 25 Abbot St.

Members and prospective members of the league are invited to bring their questions as well as a sack lunch to the event. They may eat or trade the lunch. The hostess will provide dessert and beverage.

Since Rep. Tucker has looked at the State House activities as a constituent, league lobbyist and legislator, her insights will be helpful as the league looks at a new legislative year.

Child care arrangements may be made by calling Debby Moggio, 3 Hidden Road, before noon Thursday.

Non-members interested in this meeting are invited to contact the membership chairperson, Linda Cassily, 7 Sevilla Road, for reservations and information.

Child Care

The YMCA After School Child Care will be held Monday through Friday from 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. for children in grades 1-6 from Lawrence and Methuen whose parents work. The program will provide transportation from the child's school to the Lawrence YMCA.

Children will participate in arts and crafts, outdoor activities, field trips and the availability of the pool and gym. Snacks will be provided.

For further information, contact Debbie Boutin at the Lawrence YMCA, 40 Lawrence St., Lawrence.

Town House Topics

Shawsheen Future To Be Discussed

The future of the Shawsheen School will once again be up for discussion by the School Committee next week.

During a 7:30 meeting next Tuesday night at the school, committee members will hear an update on plans to reopen the school next fall — along with the administration's recommendation on how the school should be used. (Among the possibilities: an all-town kindergarten.)

The administration will also offer additional information on Blue Cross and Blue Shield third-party payments for adjustment counseling, as requested by committee members during a recent meeting.

Planners To Again Discuss Multi-Unit Zone

The Planning Board next week will start the new year with a discussion of a not-so-new topic: a multi-unit housing zone in Andover.

The planners will meet at 7:30 Tuesday night at the Essex Street theatre building; heading their agenda is a discussion with a group of local developers on rezoning to allow multiple housing units in town. Current zoning laws do not permit new townhouse-type developments in town, and recent town meetings have defeated multi-family zoning proposals.

Later during their meeting, the board will also vote on two proposed subdivision plans, Charlotte Circle and Osgood Place.

Career Planning On Agenda

"Academic achievement and ways to improve it" was the main topic of discussion at the December meeting of Andover High School's Parents Group.

Specialists who described in detail the process by which students can get extra assistance included Karen Koon-Gowan, chair-headteachers; Win Ryan, guidance counselor; Rebecca Mooney, director of peer counseling; and Norman Eisenberg, chair-CORE team.

The Parents Group recommended that a description of the process be included with report cards so that the availability of the network for academic assistance is more widely known to parents and students alike. Principal Mary Jennings agreed to consider the recommendation. She will also investigate the idea of mini-courses in study skills.

The next meeting of the parents Group will be held Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school library and will cover college and career planning. Mrs. Julie Weil, chairperson of Parents Group, emphasized that the goal of the group was mutual exchange of ideas between parents and staff that could help improve the quality of education at the high school.

Arts Group Praised By Committee

The Andover Endowment for the Arts Committee, a sometimes misunderstood group, has done "outstanding" work in getting the J. Everett Collins Performing Arts Center off to an "upbeat start," the School Committee was told recently.

During the committee's last meeting, Committeeman Michael Giammusso praised the arts committee for working in cooperation with school officials to operate the new high school auditorium.

The committee has helped bring performances to the center and realized profits that have funded a number of improvements at the center, Superintendent Kenneth Seifert added, including mirrors in the dressing rooms ($2,400), furniture in the guest dressing rooms ($1,800), and custodial staffing beyond the four hours a day provided by the school budget.

Arts committee chairman Jared S.A. Clark and his committee understand that while they will continue booking money-making performances into the Collins center, school use of the auditorium takes first priority, Giammusso said. Keeping the focus on school use was a concern of some town officials when the arts committee was created last year.

Skiing Along The AVIS Trails

By Lyn Beattie

On The Trail

Kevon Griffin and his mother, Judy Griffin of Glenwood Road, on location at Bessy's Point of the Goldsmith Woodlands. Foster's Pond is in the background.

The Goldsmith Woodlands is a large wooded reservation in the southern part of Andover. It was the generous gift of the late Bessie Goldsmith whose desire was that this property be held forever in its natural wild state as a sanctuary, and be used only for conservational and recreational use. This AVIS reservation is located off South Main Street just north of the Route 125 interchange. The entrance is via a dirt road next to 491 S. Main St. Parking facilities are limited, perhaps best found on Gould Road.

Much of the wooded 130 acres borders on Foster's Pond and surrounding knolls offer scenic vistas. The trails for the most part are former dirt roads, wide and well graded, excellent for relaxed skiing. A large wooden map just inside the entrance shows the trail system.

The main trail, Zack's Way, runs the length of the woodlands with off-shoots to such interesting places as Bessy's Point, Wind Landing and Pond View, to name a few. Along this stretch towering pines form a snowy canopy over the trail. The quietness is noticeable.

For additional information about the Andover Village Improvement Society and its reservations, write P.O. Box 90, Andover. AVIS maps of Andover including AVIS reservations are available from Memorial Hall Library and Moor and Mountain.

Special Classes Offered

The Andover-North Andover Y.M.C.A. will offer several special interest classes to chase away the cold winter blues.

Microwave cooking class is designed to get microwave owners acquainted with microwave cooking. Included in the course will be "How microwaves work," "Utensils to use," "Planning complete meals" and, of course, testing the results. Participants will be encouraged to try new foods, bring questions and exchange ideas. Ruth Godin will be the instructor.

Stencilling, a popular craft, will be taught by Susan Kessler. Students will learn to make a pattern and stencil on a variety of materials, including wood and fabric. Stencilling is a fun way to decorate a home or to make gifts.

For further information, contact Cathy Dawson, at the "Y," 165 Haverhill St., Andover.

DCS Winter/Spring Program Set

The Department of Community Services Winter/Spring booklet was mailed to Andover homes this week. New residents who may not receive one may pick up a booklet at the DCS office in Shawsheen School. The booklet describes the wide variety of programs offered by the department.

All classes will begin Wednesday, Jan. 11, from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the West Junior High Auditorium. Registration will continue each day at the Shawsheen School office from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. until classes begin. Among the newer programs scheduled are:

Sunday: Racquetball-Introduction, a six-week program that will include instruction and playing time, will be held at the Willows Racquet Club from 7:15 p.m. to 8:15 p.m. Students must be college age or older.

Monday: Kara Gemmell will instruct the tennis player of any level in a four-week children's tennis lesson class for students in grades 4-6. Choose a starting date of Monday, June 4, or Tuesday, June 5. Students in grades 7-12 may sign up for the racquetball-introduction class. A maximum of four students will be assigned to each court. The six-week, one-hour class runs from 3:45 p.m. to 4:45 p.m.

A Creative Dramatics class will be offered to students in grades 1-3 after school at Bancroft School. The eight-week class, taught by Teresa Principe, will concentrate on theatre games, improvisation and storytelling.

A creative stitchery course will be offered by Carolyn Mattedi at Doherty Junior High for students in grades 5-7. This after-school program will explore different needleart forms using various threads and yarns to create a lovely item in plastic canvas, even-weave fabric, candlewicking and chicken-scratch.

Joan Howe will hold a two-night workshop in total body massage on March 19 and 21 at South School from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Tuesday: Susan Rochwarg's flower arranging class begins January 17. Class projects include fresh, dried and permanent materials featuring contemporary and traditional design styles.

Toastmasters International have designed a program for individuals who want to develop confidence in public speaking. Participants will develop skills by delivering prepared and impromptu talks each week and receiving constructive evaluations.

An eight-week Pencil and Charcoal Drawing for Beginners class will be taught by Joan Lagoulis at Doherty Junior High. Students will draw a real life as well as from one and two point perspective.

Wednesday: An eight-week Improvisation Workshop will be offered to students in grades 6-9 in an after-school program at Doherty Junior High. Improvisation, theatre games and exercises will be the focus of this course which will introduce the beginning drama student to the actor's craft.

Instructor Phii Hagopian will hold This Old House classes at the technical high school and at students homes. Sessions will include how to weatherstrip doors, install deadbolt locks, January 25; how to fix broken windows, glass cutting and glazing, February 1; changing switches, dimmers, wiring light and outlets, February 8; how to change sink and toilet gaskets, install sink and bath fixtures and solder pipes, February 15; install drywall or partition, repair holes, knicks, gauges and surfacing with textures, February 29.

Works composed of soft materials can be created in Joan Lagoulis' Soft Sculpture class. Sculptured forms can be in relief form, two or three dimensional. Developing concepts behind the sculpture is more important than the use of form.

Beginners as well as more advanced stitchers are welcome in Carolyn Mattedi's Potpourri of Stitches class. Have fun while learning twilling, chicken-scratch, net darning or candlewicking.

A six-week, one-hour Racquetball-Introduction class will be offered to children in grades 3-6 at the Willows Racquet Club from 3:45 p.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Sharon Con's new Rhythmic Gymnastics class will be held at Bancroft School from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. for students in grades 2-4.

Thursday: Two new computer offerings for adults include a three-week Computer Literacy class and a four-week Database Management class.

Scott Nason will offer the Computer Literacy program in a non-technical approach for parents who have computer kids and want to speak their language and for those who find that they are the only one in the office without computer in their job description. The course will review hardware, software and potential applications.

Barbara DeYoung's Database Management program does for the filing cabinet what word processing did for the typewriter. This introductory class will teach the elements of using a database program.

An open computer lab will be offered at Andover High School on Thursday from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. A small fee will be collected. A six-week basic study and test taking skill class will be offered by Sandra-Jean Grasso entitled How to be Brilliant (or appear to be...). Test-taking techniques based on universal recognizable principles such as logic, induction and deduction will be presented.

Sally Wild Speaker

Sally Wild of Andover will be one of five featured speakers on a panel of Continuum graduates. Wild, a former teacher, graduated from Continuum in February 1983 and is a sales and marketing representative at American Traveler, Incorporated. The Newton-based Continuum school began in 1975 and is known for its successful internship programs for women who wish to change, enter or advance careers.

The panel, "Women Changing Careers," will be held at Continuum, 785 Centre St., Newton, at 10 a.m. on Jan. 25. Other panelists will include Karen Ingalls, copywriter; Julie Bernardin, entrepreneur; Pam Peterson, technical writer; Joan Ahrens, senior trader. Registration is limited. Call or write Continuum.

Psychology Lecturer To Be Guest

Dr. Tom Cottle, lecturer on psychology at Harvard Medical School and author and award-winning talk show host, will speak in Phillips Academy's Kemper Auditorium Hall on Wednesday, Jan. 11, at 8 p.m. on the changing roles of men and women in the last decade. The community is invited to this free lecture.

A decade after the merger of Abbot and Phillips Academy, a Coeducation Study Group is conducting a year-long investigation of the state of coeducation at Phillips Academy. They are sponsoring Dr. Cottle's visit as "one means of educating ourselves as a school and a community on gender-related issues," according to Marian Finbury, chairman of the group, associate director of college counseling and a former faculty member at Abbot Academy. She says the task of the Coeducation Study Group is three fold—investigation, education and celebration.

"Tom Cottle's talk will be part of our educational thrust," Finbury said. "Everyone knows him from his TV shows, 'The Tom Cottle Show' and 'Tom Cottle: Up Close,' but not everyone realizes that he is a university teacher, clinical psychologist and author of 25 books, including 'Children's Secrets,' 'Hidden Survivors,' 'Like Father, Like Son' and 'Getting Married.' He's written more than 500 articles in professional journals and a wide variety of publications, The London Times, The New York Times, The Washington Post, Harpers, The Atlantic, Saturday Review, Life, Working Mother and McCalls and others. He has won writers' awards and television awards from the American Cancer Society, the Psychological Association and others. "We welcome anyone in the Greater Lawrence community to join us and Dr. Cottle for his Wednesday evening lecture.

UF Drive Showing Increase

Merrimack Valley United Fund Campaign Chairman William G. Scheerer announced on December 22 that to date the United Fund had raised $4,045,556. That was the third of four campaign reports the United Fund will make.

Last year at the same point in the campaign the fund had raised $3,720,137. Overall, the accounts in this year's campaign are averaging about 11 percent above last year's giving level.

The employees of Bon Secours Hospital in Methuen are symbolic of most employee groups in the Valley who are contributing to the 1983-84 campaign. Despite a three-year hospital pledge commitment by individual employees of Bon Secours, they have increased their United Fund pledge by 11 percent.

In a letter accompanying the pledges, William L. Lane, director of Bon Secours, expressed the generous attitude of the hospital's employment force.

"I'm very, very proud of the work that our hospital employees did this year in support of the Merrimack Valley United Fund. While I believe once or twice in years gone by we surpassed the total dollar figure generated, we've never done this well while we've had so many outstanding pledges to our own building fund effort. I think the response to this year's United Fund drive by our employees is, under the circumstances, perhaps the best we've ever achieved. It speaks well for the quality of United Fund programs available to the people of our community. Thank you for allowing us to be part of this very, very important venture."

Dino Celebrates 80th In 'Wonderful Town' He Found In 1925

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Dino Valz, born in northern Italy and raised in Vermont, came to Andover in 1925, a flat-broke Harvard graduate who needed a job "in a hurry."

Knowing "just a wee bit about printing," he found a job with the Andover Press, printing college yearbooks and writing weekly editorials for the Andover Townsman. He moved his "suitcaseful of possessions" into an attic apartment on the corner of Morton and Chestnut streets and became a citizen of Andover.

He lives now with his wife, Erma, in a pretty house on Stratford Road that they had custom-built in 1937, when the street was new. He has lived and worked, raised his family and retired in Andover, because it is "a wonderful town."

On New Year's Eve, Mr. Valz celebrated his eightieth birthday here. In the nearly 60 years since he was hired by the Andover Press, he has worked in printing and advertising, taught college students the art of printing, taken part in town government. And eight years ago, he started a quarterly newsletter for the Historical Society.

At 80, Mr. Valz says he thanks God he is "still breathing" — but adds that he is "healthy as a horse." ("He never even has a headache," Erma Valz says. "It drives me up a tree.") Dressed in a plaid flannel shirt and smoking cigarettes, he is energetic and enthusiastic, and talks with relish about his life, his interests, his opinions. (Mrs. Valz sits nearby, doing needlework and interjecting an occasional comment or editorial chuckle.)

His home is "loaded with Italy" — paintings of the village where he was born, photographs of the Alps, history books written in Italian, copper pieces (a bedwarmer and assorted pots) from his native country, edelweiss blossoms pressed and framed.

He was born Dec. 31, 1903 in the village of Piedicavallo, Piedmont, in the Italian Alps, not far from the Swiss border. (His ancestors were German-speaking Swiss who crossed the Alps during the 12th century in search of a better climate for farming, he notes.) Dino was born a citizen of both Italy and the United States: his father had lived in Vermont since 1895, and was a naturalized citizen who returned to Italy to marry.

Dino came to Barre, Vermont with his mother in 1905. Like many of his contemporaries, the elder Valz was drawn to Barre by its granite quarries. He was a skilled granite cutter and "granite was the key to where (the immigrants) went and why they went there," Dino explains. The Italian stone cutters in Vermont "changed the industry," he says, by bringing to it "craftsmanship and artistry. The Italians made works of art out of granite. They weren't Michelangelos, but that was their unique contribution."

(There was never any thought, however, that Dino would become a stone cutter. By the time he was old enough to learn the trade, pneumatic tools had replaced the chisel, and the dust created by those tools caused lung disease. "When word got around that this trade killed you, fathers forbid their children to learn it," he remembers. "It was fatal.")

Dino was educated in Barre's public schools, where he learned to speak "the King's English." (At home he spoke the Piedmontese dialect; among his friends he had learned "street English.") When Dino was entering his senior year of high school in September 1920, his father gathered up the family of four (including Dino's younger sister, Eva) and brought them all back to Italy.

There the young student faced an unexpected "language barrier": He could not read or write Italian, "the mother tongue" taught in the schools, but could only speak the Piedmontese dialect. He resolved to learn the language, but faced with a third-grade Italian reader, he felt that he had "lost nine years" of education — and four months later he returned, alone, to Barre. He had missed half a year, but he graduated with the Class of 1921, and won acceptance to Harvard.

He worked his way through college and graduated at a time when "jobs were scarce." He came to Andover for the first time — "I had never been near the place before" — when he heard the Andover Press was looking for help. He knew "just a wee bit about printing" because he had worked on his high school yearbook, it was enough to land him the job.

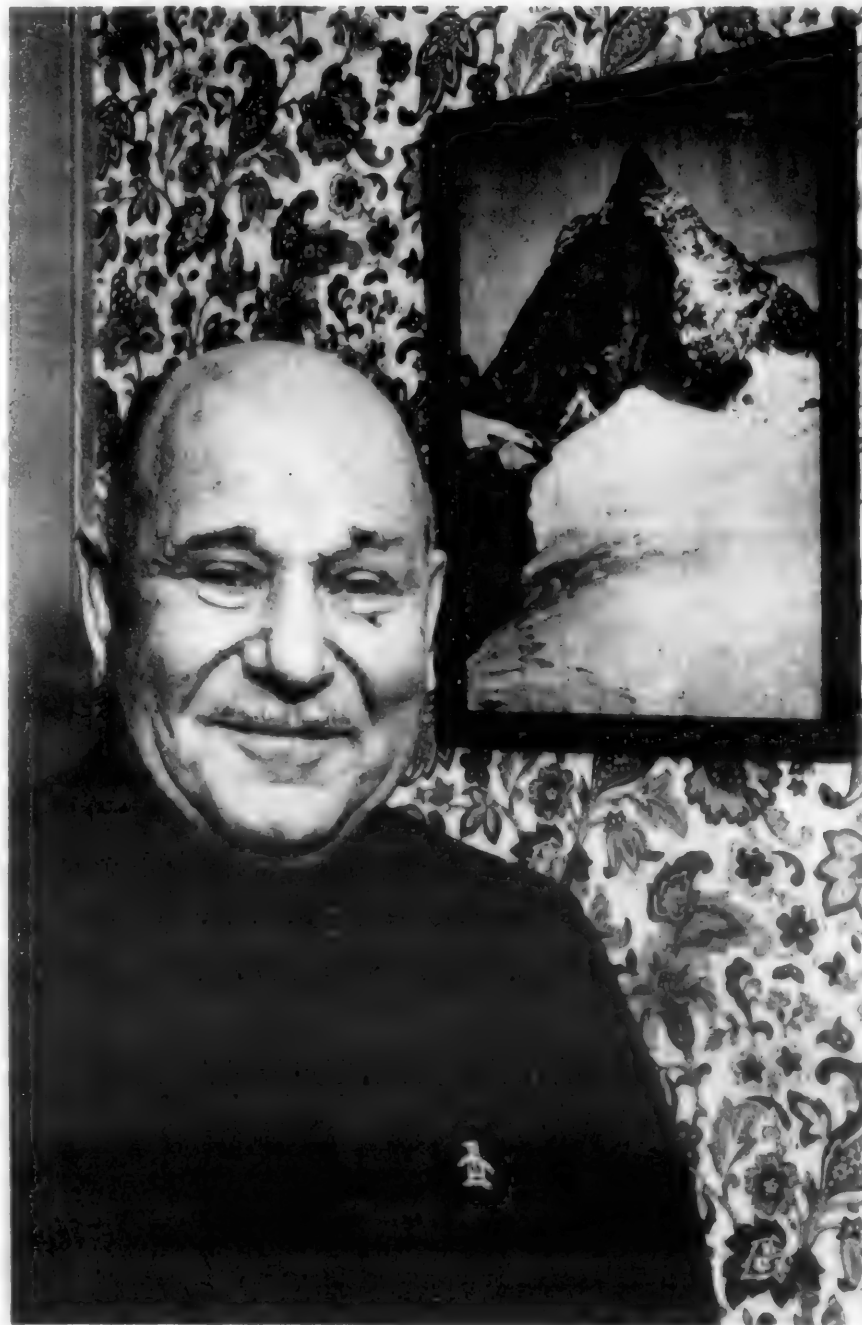

At the old Press building on the corner of Main and Chestnut streets, he had "two functions." The first was to help college students who knew "zero" about printing get their college yearbooks through the printing process (the Press printed more yearbooks than any other printer in the country, Mr. Valz says.)

The second was to write weekly editorials for the Andover Townsman. That, he recalls, was "no fun." His editorials had to "express the thoughts and opinions" of the newspaper's editor, the late Philip P. Cole, a demanding boss who was "very difficult to please" and routinely began slashing Dino's work from the first paragraph. Mr. Valz carried out that assignment for about five years.

He stayed with the Press until 1943, when he joined a now-defunct Boston advertising agency, Sutherland Abbott. He worked as a media director, buying and budgeting advertising space in periodicals, until his retirement in 1971.

And for 31 years, he also worked part-time as an instructor in the Publications (now Communications) department at Simmons College in Boston, although he had no training as a teacher and had never taken a course in the subject he taught. He happened onto that assignment in 1937, when the teacher who had created a course in editing and publishing techniques had to leave the course in mid-semester; he recommended Mr. Valz as his replacement.

Until he retired in 1969, Dino taught undergraduates at the women's liberal arts college the technical aspects of editing, publishing and graphic arts — and created the dreaded Valz Project, a demanding course requirement for seniors. He also taught courses at Simmons' graduate School of Library Science, although he held no master's degree.

While he was teaching, Mr. Valz says, time didn't pass. The students are the same age year after year — it's perpetual youth, and it keeps you young." (He does not hold with the current belief in teacher "burnout.")

Dino married Emra Trentini of Milford, N.H. (the daughter of an Italian granite cutter) in June 1931, during the Depression, and they moved to Chestnut Street. Not one of his family attended that wedding; all had remained in Italy. The newlyweds honeymooned in Italy, visited Mr. Valz's native village, and climbed the Breithorn in the Alps.

He has returned to Italy many times, alone, and later with his wife. (In 1923, he crossed the Atlantic in a cattleboat to visit his family.) He gathered his far-flung family together (from Andover, Germany and Texas) in 1981 to celebrate his fiftieth wedding anniversary at his sister's home in Piedicavallo — where he met the challenge of introducing the Americans to their Italian relatives, in Italian.

(He finally learned to speak Italian through a college course, helped along by many trips to the country, although his Italian remains "a little rough." He says he is "not a good linguist," but not because he doesn't try: In 1972, he audited a Spanish course at Andover High to prepare for a trip to Spain, "to train my ear to the Spanish sound.")

When he joined Sutherland Abbott, Mr. Valz considered moving closer to Boston to save some commuting time. But "that idea was vetoed by my family," he remembers. His children, Donald and Paula, did not want to leave. "I gladly consented to stay because I liked Andover, and I still do," he says. "It's a wonderful town — I love it." (Paula died in 1956; Don became an Army colonel, stationed in Berlin, and the father of three.)

In Andover to stay ("We're stick-in-the-muds," Erma Valz says), Mr. Valz plunged into community involvement. He ran, unsuccessfully, for School Committee. (The attempt was fun, but "hopeless" — his opponent was Bill Doherty, "the champ.") He headed the Taxpayers Association, studying the issues, taking stands and informing townspeople.

He most enjoyed serving as director and vice-president of the ill-fated Andover Co-op (now Barcelo's market) during its successful years in the late sixties, when he wrote Townsman "image-building" ads for the food co-operative.

And eight years ago, on the eve of the country's year-long bicentennial celebration, Dino Valz "accidentally" became a member of the Andover Historical Society.

He was drafted into a men's work group that set out to build new bookshelves at the society's 97 Main St. headquarters, but was immediately sidetracked by the sight of some 50 old family Bibles, and bound copies of the Townsman that were nearly 100 years old — and had mostly fallen into disrepair.

"I said to the other men, 'You use the saw and the hammer — I want to work on these books.' " He repaired the leather bindings of the old newspapers and oiled the covers of the leather-bound Bibles. Next he volunteered to write a newspaper review of a bicentennial history of the town, to help promote sales of the book — and he still had not become a member of the society.

But before December 1975 ended, Mr. Valz had been accepted as a member of the historical society. His assignment: to create a quarterly newsletter for members. He has produced 32 issues in the past eight years, "80,000 words", and it's "a one-man show, from dreaming up the ideas to proofreading the page proofs — from A to Z."

Besides editing the newsletter, Dino is working on a continuing series of articles on the Italian immigrants in Barre for a Vermont newspaper. (He is a "wordsmith" by avocation.) He reads, especially histories (his trick for reading twice as much as most people is to start in the middle of a book, a habit that annoys his wife greatly), and is currently working on The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich (from the beginning). And he enjoys landscape at his summer home in New Hampshire: "You must keep your mind, your body active."

Stroke is a disability which affects people of all ages, particularly those in their 60s. Most often it leaves the individual with some physical and speech disability. Recovery from the effects of stroke can be as difficult an experience as a stroke itself. Easter Seal can help through a support program.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Easter Seal Society.

Mrs. Gardner To Address Stroke Club

The Lawrence Easter Seal Stroke Club will hold its monthly meeting at the Massachusetts Easter Seal Society (rear of United Cerebral Palsy) Northeast Regional Office, 20 Ballard Road, Lawrence, on Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 2:15 p.m. in the Community Conference Room.

Mrs. Howard Gardner, public relations director for the Northeast Rehabilitation Hospital, will lead a group discussion on ways to make the new hospital sensitive to the need of patients and their families. New guests and friends are invited. Refreshments and conversation will follow the program.

The purpose of the club is to provide stroke disabled people and their families and friends with information and counseling aimed at easing apprehensions about the disability and to create a social environment in which the participant can become involved.

To Present Biblical Story

The Boston Theatre Group, a widely acclaimed repertory group, will give its unique interpretation of the Biblical story of Ruth at South Church on Friday, Jan. 20, at 8 p.m.

The drama will be performed "in the round" in Fellowship Hall.

"Ruth" tells the story of two women, Naomia and her daughter-in-law, Ruth, who learn to survive beyond the deaths of their husbands and sons and their own cultural differences, through their own initiative and love.

Gordon Torgersen, former president of Andover Newton Theological Seminary, says of the performance, "There is no way to be an observer only. It summons the audience to reflect, to rethink, to respond."

Another minister calls the emotional and theological impact of Ruth "so great that I thought this is what had happened to Moses when he saw the burning bush."

"Ruth" is the second in the Performing Artists Series sponsored by South Church to benefit its Organ Restoration Fund and is open to the community.

The Boston Theatre Group is an ensemble of performers devoted to exposing the images and pressures which shape the world today. Their goal is to turn the theatre into the place of revelation, the "Seeing Place," and to show that the world can be changed.

Since 1979 the group has conceived and produced four major works: Franz Kafka's "The Burrow," Ovid's "Metamorphoses," "The Companion: A Theatrical Essay on the Psalms" and "Ruth."

Festive Service At Church

The Ballard Vale United Church (United Methodist Church, United Church of Christ) will mark the First Sunday after the Epiphany with a Festive Service of trumpets, sacred dance and special choral music at its 10:30 a.m. service. The Spirit-Song Ecumenical Liturgical Dance Choir will offer the Offertory, "The People That Walk in Darkness Have Seen a Great Light." The choral anthem is "The Birth Day of the King." The Sacrament of Baptism will be celebrated and the Rev. Gary S. Cornell, the church's pastor, will preach "Beloved Son, Chosen Servant," based on the Baptism of Jesus.

Church school classes for all ages begins this Sunday. The junior high class will meet at 9:15 a.m. for a light breakfast, senior high and adults meet at 9:30 a.m. and children and infant toddler nursery at 10:30 a.m. The junior high fellowship meets at the parsonage at 5 p.m. for a Three Kings Party and the senior high fellowship meets at the church at 7 p.m.

The annual meeting for budget and membership concerns will convene following the Sunday service.

Hosts Needed

Host families in the local area are urgently needed for four boys and girls from Chile, South America. These students from the ages of 15 to 19 will be arriving in New England in January and will be attending the high school of the town in which the host family resides. The sponsoring organization in SEI (Student Exchange International), coordinated locally by Carol Allen, a teacher of English as a Second Language to foreign students at Bradford College in Haverhill, Mass. Two years ago SEI was responsible for bringing a group of young people from South America to Haverhill for a four-week stay, culminating an educational tour of the U.S. The current program is of the Extended Stay type where students will be living as a member of the family and the community for the whole six months that they are here. These young Chileans are delightful, educated people with a working knowledge of English. They are looking forward to learning about American family life and have particularly chosen New England over other areas of the country.

Any families or individuals who are interested in sharing this rewarding intercultural experience should contact Carol Allen as soon as possible at the college.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

The January edition of the "Andover Elder Affairs Newsletter" is available at the Andover senior center and at local banks and grocery stores. You won't want to miss this issue as it includes the listing of classes for the Winter program.

Registration for classes begins January 11 and continues through January 27. Classes begin the week of January 23. Classes include needlework, ceramics, easy exercise, dollhouse construction, line dancing and more. Be sure to pick up the newsletter for complete details on class time and registration fees.

The senior center will move soon to the new town office building in the old East Junior High School building. The lunch program will move into the new senior center after the Council on Aging has settled into the new quarters. Be sure to watch this column for the date of the move.

Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts has announced an open enrollment period for Medex Insurance. This open enrollment period continues through January 31. Applications are available at the Andover senior center.

It's that time of year when we make resolutions to start the new year right. Why not make a resolution to share some time with an older person in the community who would enjoy a visit from a friend. The Andover Friendly Visitor Program, under the direction of Gwendolen Smith, provides individuals the opportunity to visit homebound seniors in Andover. If you would like to make a resolution to volunteer one hour a week to share your friendship with an older person, you can call Mrs. Smith at 470-0870.

Data Center Planned

New England Telephone may begin building a 68,000-square foot, two-story "corporate data center" — a computer center — in West Andover Industrial Technical Park this month.

The new building will be located behind Software International, in the GCA section of the industrial park located off River Road. New England Telephone officials are awaiting final site plan approval from town officials.

Company spokeswoman Cynthia Austin recently reported that New England Telephone is currently reviewing proposals for construction costs and proposals for leasing space in the building. The data center will accommodate 200 employees.

Construction could begin during January, Austin said, and the target date for completion and occupancy is Nov. 1.

The proposal meets all the zoning requirements of the technical park, according to Community Development and Planning Director Jonathan Gilmore. The industrial park is zoned Industrial D, which includes the most stringent building regulations of any industrial zone in Andover.

Architect's rendering of new downtown shopping mall

New Mall Construction To Begin; Labor Day Opening A Possibility

Andover can anticipate a new retail mall to be in operation by as early as Labor Day, if plans proceed on schedule.

Robert E. Finlayson, who will develop the mall off Park street adjacent to the site of the former Purity Supreme building, said this week that engineers and architects are currently working on final plans for the new mall and that construction could begin as early as March.

His timetable provides for construction work to proceed toward near-completion by midsummer, leaving the final stages to retailers who will have leased space in the 10-15 store mall. Tenant work would include interior decoration and accommodation of the space needed for their particular operation.

Finlayson received approval last week from selectmen and the Industrial Finance Development Authority (IDFA) for $2 million in low-interest IDFA bonds to finance the project, but indicated that the total project cost should be much lower than that.

As for tenants, Finlayson said he has had as many as 40 inquiries from retailers seeking information about the mall.

Key to the project, however, is the obtaining of an "anchor" tenant, preferably a family specialty clothing store, Finlayson said.

Once the anchor tenant is secured, Finlayson feels the other tenants will be obtained in a rather rapid and orderly fashion.

As for the actual number of stores to be located there, the number can vary from ten to 15, depending on the amount of space required by the individual tenants.

The current plan provides for up to 15 units. But, should a prospective tenant require more square footage the floor space will be adjusted to accommodate the needs.

The mall developer said that his goal is to bring new businesses to Andover in an effort to expand the offerings available in the downtown business area. At the moment he is hopeful that the mall will be dedicated solely to retail space, rather than having auxiliary usage such as offices.

The second floor will contain an atrium with outside light catching the glass-fronted retail space.

Above the second floor shops will be lofts which retailers may use for either office or storage space.

The building will be constructed from Moor and Mountain to the rear of the property. The Moor and Mountain building and operation will remain, but some of the buildings to the rear will be torn down to accommodate the new construction. A portion of the property now occupied by Finlayson's Real Estate Guide operations will be incorporated into the new mall.

While the Andover businessman initially proposed a downtown mall in partnership with another local businessman, Finlayson is the sole developer of this property.

About a year ago, he and Robert Webster had proposed a mall for the Purity Supreme lot. That later became involved in a proposed swap of that lot for town parking and a proposed garage, relocating the mall to the rear of town hall.

Ultimately town meeting purchased the Purity lot from Bartlett Pealty Trust, owned by Finlayson and Webster, to be used for surface parking. It will be developed by the town in the spring.

The mall will be fully landscaped, with walkways along the front which will face the town parking lot. Mall parking will be a short distance away from the parking area in order to retain a constant, clear view of the frontage which will be of colonial styling.

The project is the first major development for retail space in the downtown area for many years.

Printing Firm Gives Way To Accounting Offices

Town Printing, an Andover business for nearly 33 years, will sell its 26 Essex St. building early next month and move to North Andover.

The Andover certified public accounting firm of Topham, Fardy Co., currently located at 15 Central St., plans to purchase the building Feb. 1, according to partner Thomas Fardy.

Town Printing, owned by Charles Poor, will relocate to larger quarters at 15 Charles St., North Andover, near the U.P.S. building.

The Essex Street building is owned by Patrick Bissonnette, former owner of the printing business who recently sold the business to Poor, his son-in-law. Bissonnette opened Town Printing at 4 Park St., upstairs from Cole Paint and Hardware, in February 1950. The printing operation moved to its current location on April 1, 1958.

Fardy said the sale is under agreement, and scheduled to become final Feb. 1; he declined to comment on the purchase price. Topham and Fardy will move their offices into the building, occupying approximately 25 percent of the available space and lease the remaining space as "general business office space," he said.

The partners are not sure how many tenants they will be seeking, Fardy said, but have architects working on floor plans at this time.

He said the firm was interested in purchasing the building because, after ten years in Andover, "We feel we are part of the community, and we wanted to be a little more involved."

Alvin Ailey Company

Repertory Company To Appear

A special attraction has been added to Collins Center events - the famed Alvin Ailey Repertory Company, direct from New York City on Saturday, Feb. 18 at 8 p.m.

Presented in conjunction with Phillips Academy, Andover, in celebration of Black Arts, this presentation will bring to the Merrimack Valley area one of the most exciting components of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre.

Tickets for this spectacular event will go on public sale Tuesday, Jan. 10, at the Collins Center box office, open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Andover Bank, Main Street office, Andover; and "Just For You," 36 Main St., Andover.

Because of the joint sponsorship with Phillips, and the wide appeal of the Alvin Ailey ensemble, tickets will go fast. You may pick them up at a ticket outlet or call the center for reservations. Discounts for groups of 20 or more are available.

The Alvin Ailey Repertory Ensemble is one of the most exciting components of the American Dance Center (the official school of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater). Exhibit

About 160 years ago, someone stood in the Wilson house, located on a farm in Dover, and systematically pitched dishes, old teacups, rusted knives, broken jugs and other household goods down the cellar stairs. They knocked down the houses's interior walls, toppled the chimney and pushed in the foundation's stones. When archaeologists excavated the cellar hole in 1978, the pottery and other objects unearthed provided substantial clues to reconstruct the family's history over several generations and to deduce what daily life was like for these 18th-century farmers and their families.

The Wilson Farm site (1733-1823) is one of ten recent archaeological excavations examined in "Unearthing New England's Past: The Ceramic Evidence," and exhibit opening Sunday, Jan. 29, at the Museum of Our National Heritage in Lexington. The exhibit was organized by the museum in collaboration with the China Students' Club of Boston, a group dedicated to the study of ceramics, who are marking their 50th anniversary, and historical archaeologists.

The Day Care Issue

It seems almost ridiculous to have to go through the formality and legalities of hearings as to whether day care providers can continue to operate in Andover.

But, the Zoning Board of Appeals will listen to just such a case tonight, and ultimately rule on the continued use of private homes to provide day care for working parents.

The case comes before the board because neighbors of a day care provider in the Indian Ridge section have objected to such activity in a residential area.

State law provides that such activity can legally be carried out as long as specific regulations are followed by the provider.

What is really being tested in tonight's hearing is the town's zoning regulations for the benefit of the building inspector. To be determined essentially is whether such an activity can be adjudged a business in a residential zone.

Frankly, there should be little debate, in that, while it is a business-like enterprise, it is also a necessary service and should be allowed to continue.

The service is not unlike that which could take place in a professional office which is allowed in homes.

It is, in fact, a service, much needed in these times.

While there are those who would continue to criticize the fact that both parents work while their child or children are at a tender age, there is the unmistakable fact that in most cases working is a necessity to meet the family budget requirements.

It is not the absence of love that drives both parents into the work world. Rather it is the true desire to provide properly for their family.

To leave the care of children to responsible people in the course of the day and who are supervised by regulatory agencies to insure the safety and health of the charges left to their care, is virtually a requirement by today's living standards in many cases.

Caring for up to six youngsters a day hardly affects the neighborhood in which such activity takes place. Nor would it adversely affect any traffic problems in the neighborhood.

It would seem then, that tonight's precedent-setting hearing and the decision that follows, should involve a simple exercise of examining the issue and assuring that day care can continue to be provided in Andover as a necessary service by those willing to perform such activity in their homes.

Report To Andover

By Rep. Sue Tucker

1984 will be a banner year at the State House

If the new rules adopted in the House in 1983 result in a more democratic and responsible legislature:

If political leaders are serious enough about education to make tough decisions like changing our tenure laws and citizens are serious enough about education to pay teachers higher salaries;

If no new studies about hunger or homelessness are ordered by anyone; rather, communities are given the resources to feed and shelter those in need;

If the Governor and Legislature continue working closely with the business community to strengthen the Massachusetts economy;

If we could develop a response to domestic violence so that no woman or child in Massachusetts is terrorized or killed in the home;

If Speaker McGee recognizes — gracefully — that it is time to leave;

If every toxic waste site in Massachusetts is cleaned up and capped;

If the new Victims' Rights Legislation is successful in changing judicial treatment of victims and their families;

If federal policy makers finally recognize that ignoring acid rain will cost taxpayers far more in the long run than mandating emission controls now.

Happy, New Year!

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — January 1909

At the regular meeting of the Indian Ridge Mother's Club, Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Rupert W. Graves gave an illustrated lecture on his trip to England, France, Germany and Holland. The lecture was followed by Scotch songs and a social hour.

We are inclined to think there will be a distinct disappointment over the inaugural address delivered yesterday by the new Governor. As an index to the activities of the State, it is a rather interesting document, but so far as it suggests anything new or important, such as has been forecasted by those who have believed that a businessman would have many business suggestions, it does not make any distinct impression.

The closing year has marked a success for Andover business enterprises that probably is not duplicated in hardly any city or town in the State. None of the factories have had any extended shut downs, and few of the operatives have suffered loss of work that has been serious.

50 Years Ago — January 1934

Nearly one thousand dollars will have to be spent on the Shawsheen School and the High School this year as the result of faulty construction. Bad leaks developed in the walls of both buildings shortly after they were completed, with the result that the inner walls, ceilings and floors have been badly damaged in bad rain storms.

Andover's weather underwent some more drastic changes this week, with the cold snap of last Thursday, Friday and Saturday giving way on New Year's Day to a spell of warm weather. Wednesday it began to get colder again, and as a result the melted snow froze, leaving the streets and sidewalks in very bad condition.

The regular monthly meeting of the Shawsheen Village Women's Club will be held Monday evening, January 8, in Balmoral hall. This meeting is in charge of the American Home committee, Mrs. Walter E. Curtis, chairman. She will present Mrs. Katherine Osborne who has chosen for her talk, "What the Family Can Do with Its Leisure Time without Money."

25 Years Ago — January 1959

Town employees have voted, almost unanimously, to seek an eight percent pay raise at town meeting. They will also push hard for town-wide adoption of a statute that allows the town to pay half the premiums for health and medical and life insurance. No immediate estimate of the cost of the raises could be obtained.

A new approach to physical education in the schools, on a daily basis, has excited the interest and enthusiasm of the state director of physical education. Donald D. Dunn, local director of physical education, has initiated a system that will give all school children in the elementary grades at least seven minutes of exercise daily. Using the schools' public address system, Mr. Dunn, with instructors Joseph Normandy and Mrs. Stanley Chlebowski, are able to provide the necessary instruction in all four schools.

Final approval was given a school department budget of $1,147,207 Tuesday night, after a long session between the Finance Committee and School Board. There was general agreement that the budget increase over 1958 would result in a least a $2 increase in the tax rate. Last year's final appropriated budget was $980,672.

10 Years Ago — January 1974

Andover faces a busy election calendar this year. There will be the usual interest in the local election in March when selectmen and school committee races command the attention of the local electorate. But in the fall, the town will be afforded the opportunity to have its own representative on Beacon Hill for the first time.

The Andover Board of Health is continuing its crackdown on improperly installed septic systems. During the past week, six additional permits were revoked by the board for systems either installed or under construction on Brady Loop. In addition, town counsel went to court last week and obtained a temporary restraining order against a contractor on two systems. The court order provides an injunction against the sale or occupancy of the home until the system is in conformance with town and state regulations.

The Public Forum

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

In the December 15 issue of the ANDOVER TOWNSMAN, I was most interested in the article regarding the plight of Mrs. Lambright to have a family day care program in her home.

During the current time, when so many families are breaking up, it is nice to know that there are people willing to open their home and take care of children and supply them with an interim home environment while giving parents the opportunity to earn a sufficient income to support their family.

The Office for Children and the State Department of Education's Bureau of Nutrition maintain very strict regulations regarding the licensing and operation of a family day care provider. Why are the neighbors of this woman trying to harm her with all this outrageous grief? What did they do with their own children?

I have some experience in the area of family day providers and I know that as long as Mrs. Lambright gives all the children that comes to her home the meals as required, maintains the proper records and supplies the sponsoring organization all this information, I see nothing wrong with her operation.

If these people are so concerned with real estate values, why don't they move and leave the woman in place. Would these people be making the same complaints if Mrs. Lambright had six children of her own.

The Town of Andover is asking for trouble if it interferes with this family day care program.

I wish Mrs. Lambright lots of luck!

Mass Appeal Opens In Lowell

"Mass Appeal," a major Broadway hit by Bill C. Davis, will be presented by the Merrimack Regional Theatre through January 22 at the theatre on Broadway Street in Lowell. The production will be directed by Terence Lamude, director of last season's opening hit "DA." Lamude has directed theatrical productions in New York, Toronto, London and Edinburgh, including "The Importance of Being Earnest" and "The Tempest."

"Mass Appeal" is the story of two men of religion, an affable and a bit-too-comfortable older priest and an earnest and a-bit-too-enthusiastic young seminarian. It is full of humor and wisdom and has won raves around the country.

Edward McPhillips will play Father Tim Farley. His past credits include "Man and Superman," "A Man for All Seasons" and "Pygmalion." McPhillips recently appeared as Scrooge in a TV commercial and in the new Woody Allen film, "Zelig."

Information Meetings

Two information meetings regarding Lesley College's Programs in Management for Business and Industry (PMBI) are scheduled for Methuen and Chelmsford on Wednesday, Jan. 11.

The Methuen meeting will be held in the Nevins Library's Green Room, 305 Broadway. The Chelmsford meeting takes place at Room 111, Town Offices, 50 Billerica Road. Both meetings start at 6 p.m.

Andover-area adults interested in attending should register by calling PMBI.

PMBI offers two degrees: a bachelor of science in organizational behavior or the master of science in applied management.

Both programs feature a concentrated, work-related curriculum that allows working adults to complete core curriculum requirements in approximately one year while continuing full-time employment.

The undergraduate course is a degree-completion program for adults with at least 56 transferable credits from a regionally accredited college or university.

Robert Walsh will appear as the young seminarian, Mark Dolson. His recent credits include Mercutio in "Romeo and Juliet" at the North Shore Music Theatre and "One Life to Live" on ABC television.

David "Sparky" Lockner, MRT's resident lighting designer, has designed the sets and lights. He designed the set for "The Lion in Winter" several seasons ago and more recently the set for "Veronica's Room" last year. Ted Bohlin, master electrician at MRT, will design the lighting. Costumes have been designed by Amanda Aldridge, resident costume designer.

Performances of "Mass Appeal" are Tuesday through Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 4 p.m. Reservations are available through the box office.

Kitchen Design

David A. Clement, designer

The kitchen sink is probably used more often than any other kitchen component. Stainless steel sinks are lightweight making them easy to install, stain resistant and durable. Their brushed finishes also keep their good looks through routine wear. Be sure to check the gauge or thickness of the steel. A gauge of 18-20 is satisfactory. Also compare the nickel/chrome coating of various models. Nickel prevents corrosion while chrome enhances the finish. The more of each the better. Enamel-on steel sinks are heavy but they resist acid stains, scratches, chips and dents. They also come in a rainbow of colors.

A kitchen and bath designer with 12 years experience, Mr. Clement designs and installs kitchen and bathroom fixtures. He has worked with a variety of licensed professional plumbers and is experienced in remodeling, renovation and repair work. Mr. Clement is a member of the National Kitchen and Bath Association (NKA) and the International Association of Kitchen Designers (IAKD). He is also a member of the Merrimack Valley Health Planning Council, Inc. and the Merrimack Valley Chamber of Commerce. He is a graduate of the Merrimack Valley Community College and holds a degree in Business Administration from the University of Massachusetts at Lowell. Bantam A's End 1983 With 21-7 Record

The Bantam A hockey team completed the 1983 portion of its schedule with a sparkling 21 and 7 record. The five returning players, Chris Sapuppo, Peter Trede, James O'Brien, Steve Donovan and Glen Allard, have supplied a tremendous scoring punch with a combined total of 79 goals, 98 assists for 177 points. A second trio, that takes a back seat to no one, is led by center Brian Costello between high flying wings Matt Young and Mark Berberian (44 goals, 43 assists for 87 points). Brian McAnally, centering for Lou LoPresti and Derek Cianci, have found the net for a total of 55 points on 22 goals and 33 assists. First-year defensemen Joe Lyons, Pat Breen and Tom Tormey have done an excellent job in protecting their goalies and sending their forwards out of the zone with great passes. Chris Hansberry and James Berberian have split each game and have a combined goals-against average of 2.60. They have been responsible for five shutouts and five one-goal games. The team has missed center Kyle McCabe who will be sidelined until February with a broken arm suffered in an off-ice accident. With a dozen games to play before the annual trip to Canada and games in Toronto and Oshawa, the boys are working hard to maintain their momentum.

Andover 6 - No. Andover 1

In the last game of 1983, the Bantams began slowly and found themselves behind as No. Andover scored from a scramble in front of goalie Chris Hansberry at the six-minute mark. One minute later, cousin Derek Cianci took a centering pass from Chris McAnally and evened the score. At the five-minute mark of the second period Steve Donovan intercepted a clearing pass, wheeled and fired the eventual game-winner off of the left post and behind the goalie. Coming right back after the face-off, Donovan slipped a pass to Glenn Allard who fired a high shot off the cross bar and into the net. With two minutes left in the period, Lou LoPresti stepped onto the ice and quickly passed the puck to Tom Tormey who passed across to a streaking Chris Sapuppo who blasted home the last goal of the period. Allard scored again in the third period off a quick pass from behind the net by Jamie O'Brien. The scoring was completed by the ever-present Cianci with 26 seconds remaining on good, sharp passes from linemates McAnally and LoPresti.

Andover Youth Basketball League

Only two teams remain unbeaten after the second week's action in the senior division. The Bucks were defeated for the first time by the Sonics 43-37. The Celtics posted their first win over the Bulls 57-50. The 76ers won their second straight 48-45 against the Jazz. In the final contest of the evening, the Knicks squeaked by the Lakers 43-42 as both teams records went to 1-1.

The Sonics' win over the Bucks was paced by 16 points from Chris Concerni, eight of which came in the fourth period. Rich LaFond was runner up with 9 points, followed by John Smythe 6, Derek Brucato 5, Steve Mencis 4 and Josh Yezerski 3. Brett Dugan was a strong rebounder and Steve Napolitano was a floor leader. Jay Trepanier was top scorer for the Bucks with 15 points and Chris Hekimian had a strong game to go with his 10 points. Other scorers were Chris Nelson with 5, Pat Burns 4, Rob Foley 2 and Dave Schwind 1. Walt Anderson played strong defense.

The winning Celtics' total of 57 points was the season-high thus far. Balanced scoring featured their attack with 17 points from Scott McAllister, Matt Dorsey 14, Steve Howes and Jim Tacy 8 each, Todd McAllister 5, John Dorsey 4 and Steve Hanley 1.

The Bulls had a 32-24 halftime lead but cold shooting in the third quarter led to their loss. Mark Russell had a hot hand with 10 baskets and a foulshot for a total of 21. He was ably assisted by John Russell with 10 points, Burt Kalkstein 8, Kevin Mayberry 5, Doug Tyler 4 and Keith Mercer 2. Jim Pfeiffer had a bundle of assists.

The 76ers kept their winning streak going as John Perry swished 11 baskets and five free throws for a game high total of 27. Jim Reagan and Barry Connors shot well with 10 and 9 points, respectively. Jim Lambers and Eric Tatro each contributed a foul shot. Craig Koffman hauled down numerous rebounds and Jeff Leonard played well on defense. The Jazz led 37-35 going into the final stanza before falling short by three points. Their scoring was well balanced with 11 points each from Mike Dimeo and Steve Durso as well as Aleke Msumba. Brandon McCue had 6, Matt McKinnon 3, Akeem Msumba 2 and Sean Durso 1. Tom Murray had numerous steals.

The Knicks trailed 30-28 after three periods, but eight fourth period points by Chris Poor led them to the win. Poor took scoring honors with 20, while Jim Flowers and Scott Powers each had 7. Ken DeBenedictus and Greg Kinsky had 3 each, John Butt 2 and Scott Wallace 1. The hard-luck Lakers had 15 from Brett Yannalfo, 6 each from Paul Valcourt and Tom Gall, 5 each from Eric Goodman and Sean Sullivan, Jeff Valcourt 4 and Ed Brylcz

Squirt A Andover 5 - Newburyport 2

After absorbing their third loss of the season to Burlington 4-3 on December 19, Andover's Squirt A's won their 25th game on December 22, easily defeating Newburyport 5-2 in a Danvers Twin Rinks League game. Andover had built a 5-0 lead in the first two periods before becoming a little sloppy and allowing two breakaway goals. The two Newburyport goals were among only 55 Andover goalie Brian Novelline has surrendered over the 30-game season (25-3-2), giving him an outstanding 1.83 goals against average. Andover has scored an average of 5.86 goals per game.

John Melillo opened Andover's scoring when he put the puck by the goalie after good passes from Colin Nix and Todd Allard at the 7:58 mark of the first period. Five minutes later Sean Darwin made it 2-0 when he scored a nice unassisted goal. Brian Lane made it 3-0 two minutes into the second period, completing a pretty length of the ice rush. Less than two minutes later Nix scored to give Andover a 4-0 lead. His goal was set up by Melillo and Chris Pothier's fine passing behind the net. Kevin Smith, Michael DiStefano and Darwin combined for Andover's fifth and final goal, scored just before the second period ended. Darwin completed the play by snapping a wrist shot into the open side.

Andover's defense did an excellent job as regular Jonathan Shine and alternate Kevin Lane combined to keep Newburyport's forwards off balance and the area in front of the net clear for the entire game.

Andover 3 - Everett 2

Andover ran into a buzzsaw in the first round of the Arlington Christmas Tournament. Everett came up with one of its better games of the year, playing Andover very tightly despite having been shut out 5-0 by Andover two weeks earlier. But for Brian Novelline's excellent work in the net, Andover would have gone down to its fourth defeat of the year.

Everett scored the first goal of the game three minutes into the first period when a clearing shot from the point deflected off an Andover defenseman and into the net. Two minutes later Sean Darwin, taking an unusual turn on defense, scored at the end of an excellent length-of-the-ice rush to tie it 1-1. Andover took a 2-1 lead 1:58 later when Jay Coburn scored from a scramble in front. From that point on the game went back and forth with each team's offense being frustrated by a combination of good defense, good goaltending and what

One of the most important decisions to affect the United States was made on Nov. 1, 1765—but not in America. In England, the government decided to put into effect on that day a measure designed to raise money by taxing newspapers, legal documents, pamphlets, playing cards and the like. This unpopular Stamp Act was one of the catalysts of the Revolutionary War.

Did You Know?

An auctioneer, chanting at a lightning 400 to 500 words a minute, can sell a batch of tobacco every four to six seconds, or about 600 piles per hour.

At that rate of speech the tobacco auctioneer could race through the historic Gettysburg Address in a mere 40 seconds. He could recite the approximately 796,000 words of the standard King James Bible in slightly more than one day. At 500 words a minute, he also could breeze through the U.S. Declaration of Independence in about three minutes and the Bill of Rights in another 80 seconds.

seemed to be, especially for Andover, extra wide goal posts.

Andover's second period offense was led by center John Melillo and wings Chris Pothier and Colin Nix, each of whom had several good scoring chances end in frustration. Likewise, first line left wing Kevin Smith, who hit the post twice in the period. On the other end, Brian Lane and Todd Allard continually broke up Everett rushes to keep Andover in the lead entering the third period.

Halfway through the final period Everett scored on a three-on-one to tie it up at 2-2. The teams went back and forth until, with 52 seconds left in the game, Jonathan Shine stopped a clearing pass at the point and fed Michael DiStefano in the slot. DiStefano then fired a rising shot over the goalie's catching glove to give Andover a very hard-earned 3-2 victory.

Andover 8 - Belmont 2

Andover's second game in the Arlington tournament was not a romp until the third period. Andover scored once in the first period, three times in the second and four times in the third for the win.

Andover gave up a score midway through the first period, again in an unfortunate deflection off an Andover defender. Sean Darwin tied things up with a minute left in the period when he converted a play set up by linemates Kevin Smith and Michael DiStefano's passing. Brian Lane's rush and goal gave Andover the lead they would never relinquish six minutes into the middle period. Over the next few minutes John Melillo, Colin Nix and Chris Pothier all hit posts behind the Belmont goalie and Todd Allard's shot from the point hit the goalie's skate despite the fact that he never saw the puck. These four non-goals were followed by a DiStefano goal off a Darwin pass and an unassisted Darwin goal off a steal inside the zone. Belmont scored just before the end of the period to make it 4-2 with 12 minutes to go.

The third period was all Andover's. Goalie Brian Novelline made two excellent saves and DiStefano scored twice (Darwin and Smith assisting) to complete his hat trick and Darwin (DiStefano assisting) scored once to complete his hat trick. Andover's fourth goal and his second of the game came from Lane when he was sent in alone from center ice by Jonathan Shine's lead pass. Forward Jay Coburn was a defensive standout, contributing a strong backchecking game.

Andover 4 - South Boston 4

Andover's third game in the Arlington Christmas Tournament was a thriller which saw Andover score twice late in the game to salvage a 4-4 tie. South Boston entered the finals though because of fewer goals against. The Squirts left the rink proudly, having played one of their best games of the year against Southie.

South Boston scored first on a fluke goal when the game was only 12 seconds old. Four minutes later Brian Lane's rush and backhand tied it up. Four minutes into the second period South Boston took a 2-1 lead which lasted a very short time. Jonathan Shine, who played an outstanding game on defense, sent Michael DiStefano in alone for the tying goal. Led by Lane, Chris Pothier and Kevin Smith then continued for some good offensive pressure but they couldn't get the puck by the Southie goaltender. Southie then scored twice on screen shots to enter the third period with a 4-2 lead.

Andover's courage showed through in the final period as they scored twice to gain the 4-4 tie. Brian Novelline's goaltending and great defense by Todd Allard enabled Andover's forwards to go to work. Three minutes into the period John Melillo's pass from behind the net to DiStefano at the top of the crease made it 4-3. Five minutes later Colin Nix fed DiStefano in the slot for a wrist shot which tied the game 4-4. Andover may well have won the game with about 20 seconds left when Smith's rising wrist shot either went in the top corner and came out or hit the post. The referees ruled that the shot hit the post, but several Everett fans, supporting a team Andover had beaten in the first tournament game, claimed that their vantage point behind the net enabled them to see that the shot actually went in and came right back out. In any event, Andover's Squirts did themselves proud in the Arlington Tourney, winning two and tying one to run their season's record to 27-3-3.

WOMEN & JOINT CUSTODY

After divorce or separation, joint legal custody means that you and your husband must consult and agree on all major decisions governing your children's lives such as medical care, education and religious training. In recent years, joint legal custody has become very fashionable for separated and divorced couples because it appears to offer a way to involve both parents in their children's lives. However, joint legal custody requires you to maintain continued contact with your husband and may mean additional Court involvement in your family's life when you and your husband cannot agree. Moriarty Catches On At Northeastern

Brien Moriarty

Brien Moriarty, a former star quarterback at Andover High School, has switched positions and evolved into a fine defensive back at Northeastern University.

Moriarty, recently awarded his first varsity letter, worked his way into a starting position and projects as a starter next season. He registered 24 tackles, 12 unassisted, while playing most often in the latter half of the schedule.

But the highlight of his year was a game-saving fumble recovery in the final minutes against American International. AIC had driven to the Northeastern four-yard line before Moriarty stole the moment.

Brien had a super year for us and played under a lot of pressure," said Paul Pawlak, head coach. "He is a serious contender for a starting spot in 1984."

Northeastern went 6-4-1 in 1983, its first winning season since 1978. The Huskies were most impressive in knocking off Connecticut, Massachusetts, C.W. Post and Springfield and in a thrilling tie with powerful Delaware State. Tough losses came in tilts with new Hampshire, Maine, Rhode Island and Lehigh.

Moriarty threw for more than 1200 yards as a first-team All-Merrimack Valley selection at Andover. He graduated in 1982 as a football captain and baseball letterwinner.

Moriarty is a Business major.

Suntime Suntan Center — Pre-tan For Winter Vacation

Suntime Suntan Center, 93 Main St., Olde Andover Village (rear), can help you maintain a beautiful tan all year long and even get you pre-tanned for your winter getaway. Suntime offers a convenient and safe way to a healthy year-round tan.

With three tanning booths and three more planned, Suntime offers a completely private way of tanning whether you want just a facial tan or an all over tan.

Suntime uses a scientifically designed program utilizing the very latest and most refined system in UVA technology, designed to provide a rich, dark, long lasting tan without the hazards of burning. Unlike other systems such as sunlamps, the UVA system is designed to prevent any burning, drying or harmful effects to your skin. Owner Matt McGrath guarantees you a safe, healthy tan.

Suntime Suntan Center is not only safer than the sun, but it is also safer than most of the other indoor tanning centers around. Why? We at Suntime illuminate our private booths solely with UVA bulbs. Most tanning centers still use 5 automated minutes of UVB bulbs (which duplicate the harmful effects of radiation to the body). Our tanning system has been proven safest by both the U.S. Government and by independent testing laboratories. There is no chance of burning with us.

Planning a winter getaway to Florida or the Islands? Or maybe you're planning a honeymoon in the tropics. Don't arrive pale and then suffer through a week of discomfort because of sunburn. Pre-tanned skin is your skin's own best protection. It's your insurance against all that pain and costly lotion.

Suntime's introductory offer of 7 visits for 29$ is just right for pre-tanning or the beginning of a beautiful year-round tan. At the end of the introductory offer you'll have a gorgeous tan yet you'll have only invested 2½ hours. It's virtually impossible to get a safe, golden tan in the sun in 2½ hours!

So why not give yourself a winter treat by stopping in at Suntime Suntan Center where you'll get a beautiful tan in a clean, friendly atmosphere that will make you feel terrific! For convenience, appointments are taken but walk-ins are always welcome. Open Mon.-Fri. 8 am-8 pm and Sat. 8 am-6 pm. Tel. 470-3267. Member of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce.

Repertory

ble has attempted to maintain the historical perspective of dance with the inclusive of such dance classics as "Game" by Donald McKayle and "The Road of Phoebe Snow" by Talley Beatty.

Among its credits, the Ensemble includes producing five original ballets as its contribution to the very special "Ailey Celebrates Ellington" at the New York State Theater in Lincoln Center. The Ensemble has also performed as a guest company in the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater's New York City Center season.

The Repertory Ensemble was established in the fall of 1974. Since its inception, it has been very successful in serving its dual function as both an arena for performance experience for fourteen very talented and highly trained young dancers as well as being a vehicle by which new audiences throughout the country can be exposed to dance. In an attempt to perform for people who would have little opportunity of enjoying the arts, the company regularly performs in institutional settings - correctional facilities, mental health centers, drug rehabilitation programs and hospitals. The Alvin Ailey Repertory Ensemble continues to develop a wealth of young dancers, choreographers, designers and theater technicals.

Hotline Appealing

Due to popular demand and busy telephone lines, the Collins Center is now taking calls 24 hours a day. So, after you read one of our stories, or decide to go out to a special event, or just want to find out what's coming up, don't hesitate to call 470-1905 and, if we are not there personally, we will get back to you.

Workshops

Reservations are coming in fast for the next workshop scheduled with Tom Rush on Saturday, Jan. 14, at 2 p.m. at the Collins Center. Tom will discuss the origins of folk singing and his own personal history during the last 20 years.

There is no charge but register by calling the Center.

On Sunday, Jan. 29, Boris Goldovsky will present

Safety Tip

A new test has confirmed the long-standing view that windshield wiper blades on the average become unfit for use in six to 12 months.

Exposure to the weather alone cuts the useful life of windshield wipers, even when they are not used.

Ozone, a major component of air pollution, is the single most important factor in causing wiper blades to deteriorate. When the rubber in a wiper is exposed to ozone, a chemical change takes place, making the rubber dry and brittle and more prone to wear. In this condition, the wiper blades may streak or chatter across the windshield and not perform their proper cleaning action.

A good rule is to replace the rubber wiping element at least once a year, and occasionally as often as every six months.

Riding with worn wipers for that extra six months of "borrowed time" can be considered a very real safety hazard.

SMOKE ALARMS

Every one is talking about something that is sweeping the country and being featured in the popular magazines and on the radio and television. It is smoke alarms. Smoke alarms are the most important safety device in your home. They can save lives by alerting you to a fire in its earliest stages. Smoke will be evident to you a few minutes sooner than heat, and will trigger the alarm waking sleeping occupants.

Two types of alarms are available. One is called the ionization detector, and the other the photoelectric detector. The ionization detector is best for detecting fires that start in the living room, kitchen, and bedrooms. The photoelectric detector is best for detecting fires that start in the hallways and bedrooms. So, you should have both types of smoke alarms in your home. Smoke alarms are a small investment that can save lives. Call today for more information.

Temporary

Assistant Principal John Hughes will become acting principal at Doherty, while West Elementary Assistant Principal Eugene Frulla will serve as acting principal at Bancroft.

Frulla will be temporarily replaced at West by Iora Alexander, a former assistant principal at West; and at Doherty, Hughes will be temporarily replaced by Kenneth Pellerin, business education head teacher.

Alexander and Pellerin will, in turn, be replaced for the next six months by permanent substitute teachers. Seifert said those substitutes will be named next Tuesday night, when the school committee will be asked to approve all of the temporary appointments.

The school committee is expected to hire a new assistant superintendent to take Mitsakos' place permanently beginning July 1. At that time, the acting assistant superintendents, acting principals and acting assistant principals will return to their usual positions.

Seifert said replacing Mitsakos during the next few months will not effect the current school budget. The acting administrators will fill their new roles at no additional salaries or stipends, accepting the expanded responsibilities for the sake of the challenge and the experience.

And the cost of the permanent substitutes' salaries will not exceed the portion of Mitsakos' salary remaining in the budget, the superintendent said.
